Today, successful business management depends on understanding the links connecting the world's economies and its capital and investment networks, as well as producers' and consumers' decision-making processes. By studying economics, you'll gain a unique foundation in theoretical and analytical thinking and grounding in "real world" problems. Our distinguished faculty will educate you in the advanced strategic and critical thinking skills demanded by today's global marketplace.

The Department of Economics offers two separate programs for Non-Business majors, not enrolled in the Feliciano School of Business:

1. Bachelor of Arts in Economics
2. Minor in Economics

Undergraduate

- Economics Major (B.A.) (http://catalog.montclair.edu/programs/economics-ba/)
- Economics Major (B.A.) (Combined B.A./M.B.A. Business Administration) (http://catalog.montclair.edu/programs/economics-combined-ba-mba/)
- Economics Minor (http://catalog.montclair.edu/programs/economics-minor/)