SOCIOLOGY (SOCI)

SOCI 100 Introduction to Sociology (3 credits)
An introduction to the study of human groups, from peer groups to families to societies. How and why culture, social structure, and group processes arise. Consequences of social forces for individuals. Meets Gen Ed - Social Science Perspectives.

SOCI 102 Racial and Ethnic Relations (3 credits)
The social meaning of race and ethnicity. The social, psychological and structural sources of racism; the consequences of this phenomenon to groups; situation and comparative data. Meets Gen Ed - Social Science Perspectives. Meets World Cultures Requirement.

SOCI 104 Sociology of the Family (3 credits)
Discussion of 'official' and 'unofficial' (single parent, gay/lesbian) family relationships; compare current U.S. family forms with those of other historical periods and societies; examine trends in contemporary societies affecting family forms, such as changing work role of women, changed sexual norms in courtship and recent changes in divorce rate; analyze issues in the 'politics of the family.' Meets Gen Ed - Social Science Perspectives.

SOCI 105 Black Family (3 credits)
The black family in American society; historical perspectives and contemporary conflicts surrounding the black family. Meets World Cultures Requirement.

SOCI 106 Individual and Society (3 credits)
The relationship between culture, social structure, various institutions and the individual's social perceptions, sense of self and self-presentation are explored in this course. The structure of small groups is also discussed. Meets Gen Ed - Social Science Perspectives.

SOCI 112 Sociology of Leisure (3 credits)
This course examines the sociology of sports and leisure from diverse theoretical perspectives. Activities explored include recreational and competitive sports (baseball, basketball, swimming, football, hockey, gymnastics) among children, high school, college, and adult age groups; youth and adult games (cops and robbers, power rangers, cards, etc.); sex; drinking; gambling; mushroom collecting; and T.V. (football games and soap operas). Topics discussed include the role of leisure and sport activities in character development, gender activity, and social relationships; the effect of leisure and sport activities on education and occupational mobility; risk and injury in leisure and sports; and the political, economic, and ideological role of leisure and sports activity in the reproduction of society.

SOCI 113 Social Problems (3 credits)
How social structure and social institutions are related to problems such as discrimination, environmental pollution, violence, and poverty. Meets Gen Ed - Social Science Perspectives.

SOCI 201 Foundations of Sociological Inquiry (4 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 102 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 112 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219. An introduction to the methods and theory of sociological inquiry. Topics include: comparisons of dominant paradigms of sociological thought, critical analysis of basic concepts in the field, logic and rhetoric of sociological analysis, and ethical and value issues in the practice of sociology. Emphasis will also be placed upon writing sociology: documentation, literature search, organization and style. Meets the Graduation Writing Requirement for majors in Sociology.

SOCI 207 Social Structure of American Society (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 102 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 112 or SOCI 113. Empirical materials on social structure. Inter-institutional relations as the form of the broad, general structure of American society.

SOCI 208 Men and Masculinities (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 102 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 201. This course focuses on men and masculine identities in the United States and other countries. It reviews how masculine identities are constructed in everyday lives and how societies shape such identities. In this class, we will examine the construction of masculinity in different areas such as work, school, sports, family and other social relationships. We also explore the diverse experiences of masculinities based on race, ethnicity, class and sexual orientation. Mutually Exclusive with GWS 208.

SOCI 209 Sociology of Poverty and Welfare (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 201 or departmental approval. Poverty and welfare institutions as social phenomena. The meaning of poverty, absolute and relative deprivation, the functions of social welfare institutions.

SOCI 212 Sociology of Technology (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 102 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 201 or SOCI 112 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219. Social processes affecting technological innovation and the forms in which an innovation is institutionalized or abandoned. The social consequences and assessment of technological innovations.

SOCI 215 Sociology of Sports (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 201 or departmental approval. This course will examine the major theoretical and substantive writings on the sociology of amateur and professional sports. Topics to be explored from conflict, functionalist and symbolic interactionist perspectives include socialization and athletic identity, women in sports, race and class in sports, gender relations and sport participation, sport risk and injury, education and sports participation, sports in the media, sport and the reproduction of society, and fieldwork among college and professional athletes.

SOCI 219 Sociology of Aging (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 201 or departmental approval. With a shift in America's population toward an older society, it becomes important to understand the aging process and its implications for various social institutions. This course examines demographic characteristics which influence the aging process; various theories to explain the process; and specific policies, nationally and locally, to address it.

SOCI 220 Sociology of Rich and Poor Nations (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): WRIT 105 or WRIT 106 or HONP 100 or HONP 101 or SOCI 100 or SOCI 102 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 201 or departmental approval. This course deals with the disparity in standards of living among the nations of the world today as well as with the strategies social scientists and social planners have formulated to eradicate poverty where it occurs. This course focuses on the historical, political, economic, cultural, and sociological relationships that have contributed to the current division of labor in the world and world inequalities. Furthermore, it focuses on specific social problems faced by poor nations while comparing social institutions in Western societies with their counterpart in non-Western societies. Meets Gen Ed - Global Cultural Perspectives.
SOCI 225 Latinas and Latinos in the United States (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100, SOCI 102, SOCI 104, SOCI 105, SOCI 106, SOCI 113, SOCI 201, LALS 201 or LALS 205; or departmental approval.
This course examines the experiences of Latinas and Latinos in the United States in terms of patterns of identity formation, ethnic culture, community maturation, citizenship, labor struggles, and social mobility. Students will map out the heterogeneous mosaic of Latin American and Caribbean diasporas in the U.S. Some of the main organizing topics include the politics of labeling; migration and community formation histories; media representations; race and racial formations; education and the politics of language; Hispanic political activism; gender; and popular culture. Students will critically engage with works from multiple forms of media to place the experience of diverse Latinx populations in social, political, historical, and interdisciplinary perspectives.

SOCI 230 Sociology of Conflict and Violence (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 102 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 112 or SOCI 113 or departmental approval.
Types of conflict and violence including war, crime, family and sexual violence, class and ethnic violence, and genocide; biological determinist and cultural explanations of violence; theories of nonviolent social change.

SOCI 240 Statistics for Social Research (4 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or STAT 109 or JUST 101 or JUST 102 or JUST 204 or JUST 205 or departmental approval.
The use of statistics to summarize data, to show relationships among variables. Evaluating research reports based on statistics. Use of the computer to analyze data. Mutually Exclusive with JUST 240.

SOCI 250 Special Topics in Current Sociology Issues (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): WRIT 105 or WRIT 106 or HONP 100 or HONP 101.
Faculty will expand on a current issue topic pertaining to their area of scholarship. This course is intended to reach a broad undergraduate student population, regardless of their prior exposure to sociological theories and concepts. The course will awaken a sociological imagination and facilitate the application of sociological concepts to the understanding of current issues. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credits.

SOCI 290 Cooperative Education in Sociology (3-4 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100, SOCI 102 SOCI 104 SOCI 105, SOCI 106 or SOCI 113.
The cooperative education option integrates academic study with a supervised employment experience outside the formal classroom environment. The co-op term is a semester off-campus, during which a student is supervised by a faculty coordinator and the office of Cooperative Education and is responsible for completing the terms of a learning contract.

SOCI 301 Sociological Research Methods I (4 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201. Introduction to primary methods of gathering sociological data: experimentation, survey research, participant observation, etc. Use of computers to analyze data. The formulation of hypotheses, survey design, participant observation and the use of elementary statistics.

SOCI 302 Sociological Research Methods II (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301. The formulation of hypotheses, survey design, participant observation and the use of elementary statistics; certain broad problems in the philosophy of social science.

SOCI 303 Large Scale Organizations (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 240 or departmental approval.
The structure and functions of bureaucracy in modern society; the life cycle of large organizations and their methods of operation; selected contemporary problems.

SOCI 304 Sociology of Work and Professions (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 230 or departmental approval.
The development of modern forms of work; the shift from manufacturing to service occupations; and problems of work alienation; current models of labor management relations in the U.S. compared to Western Europe and Japan; the effects of new technology on skill, employment levels, and on labor management relations; conceptions of the professions and their role in society; the process of an occupation becoming a profession.

SOCI 307 Immigration (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 240 or departmental permission.
This course examines immigrant experiences and the United States as an immigrant society. Topics include social mobility, ethnic communities, integration and assimilation, discrimination, refugees, transnationalism, and unauthorized migration. Special attention is paid to current questions including anti-immigrant legislation, immigrant rights, the status of undocumented residents, and the social and economic impact of immigration. Students will critically analyze the influence of voluntary and involuntary migration on individual livelihoods, families, and human rights.

SOCI 309 Sociology of Health and Illness (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 201 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 230 or FCST 200 or departmental approval.
The focus of this course is on the relationship between society and health with a special emphasis on the role of culture and social structure. Health inequalities and the sociology of disability will be central concerns. Other topics will include social and cultural definitions of health and illness, the social role of the ‘sick’, comparative medical beliefs and practices and medical institutions.

SOCI 310 Directed Independent Research (3-9 credits)
Prerequisite(s): Departmental approval. Research and report under faculty direction. The student selects for investigation an area of sociological concern with the approval of a faculty supervisor. Multiple semester selection permitted with approval. May be repeated three times for a maximum of 12 credits.

SOCI 311 Urban Sociology (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 230 or departmental approval.
The processes of urbanization and suburbanization; nature of urban social relations, including racial and ethnic relations; urban ecological patterns and demographic conditions. Meets World Cultures Requirement.

SOCI 312 Environmental Sociology (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 104 or SOCI 105 or SOCI 106 or SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 230 or departmental approval.
The role of sociology in understanding and analyzing the environment, environmental issues and problems, and the sociocultural sources and structure of environmentalism and environmental movements. Various perspectives and approaches to explaining the relationship between society and the environment are explored.

SOCI 313 Sociological Theory: A Critical Analysis (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or departmental approval. A comparison of important theories on key themes in sociology; the nature of social interaction, the definition of power, stratification, social control and deviance, alienation and anomie, social structure and function, social bases of knowledge and belief, and social conflict and change.
SOCI 314 Environmental Justice (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): JUST 204 or JUST 205 or SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 240 or departmental approval. The domain of this course is the role of social inequities, especially those of class and race, in the distribution of environmental risks in societies at the local, national, and global levels and includes study of legal remedies and public policy measures that address environmental injustices. Mutually Exclusive with JUST 314.

SOCI 315 Social Inequality (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 240 or departmental approval. The inequalities of social ranking systems in societies. Theoretical and empirical approaches to stratification delineating the variables of power, power elites, class consciousness, alienation and class mobility. Meets World Cultures Requirement.

SOCI 316 Sociology of Education (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 100 or SOCI 104 or SOCI 113 or SOCI 201 or departmental approval. This course will examine the ways in which the school as an institution of social control and social change. The social organization of schools: social roles of students, teachers and other school personnel. (Not to be used for teacher certification.)

SOCI 318 Sociology of Population (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 104, SOCI 201, SOCI 220 or departmental approval. Problems of population and demographic change; social foundations and consequences of changes in fertility, mortality, and migration. Population and socio-economic development. The uses of demographic data in planning, policy making, and social research.

SOCI 330 Political Sociology (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 240 or departmental approval. This course will endeavor to give the student a relatively complete understanding of the social dynamics of political actions on various levels.

SOCI 334 Comparative Social Analysis (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): Departmental approval. Comparative sociological schemes; the analytical blocks of total society; kinship, family and marriage; policy and bureaucracy; social stratification and mobility; industrialization and urbanization; belief systems and value orientations.

SOCI 336 Sociology and Social Work (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 240 or departmental approval. This course focuses on the social functions, determinants, and consequences of helping professions such as social work, and helping institutions such as public welfare. Particular emphasis is placed on the relations of helping professions and institutions with their socio-political environment and with their clients.

SOCI 340 Social Change in a Global World (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 207 or SOCI 208 or SOCI 209 or SOCI 212 or SOCI 215 or SOCI 219 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 240 or departmental approval. This course will examine the ways in which people's food production and consumption patterns are affected by and related to other aspects of their social organization. The interrelationship between food production/consumption patterns, political life, stratification systems, and demography will be examined. The main focus will be a comparison between different forms of social organization with respect to the management of food and population issues.

SOCI 350 Special Topics in Social Issues (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201. Faculty will teach a sociological issue topic pertaining to their area of scholarship. The course is intended for students interested in relatively deep sociological analysis of a subject of interest, and of social relevance. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credits.

SOCI 364 Religion, Culture, and Society (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 201 or SOCI 220 or SOCI 230 or RELG 220 or RELG 221 or RELG 223 or departmental approval. The social bases of religious belief and practice; religion vs magic and sorcery; religion in a politico-economic and historical context; social psychology of comparative religions; secularization and its critiques; religion and globalization; religion and social inequality; race and gender in religion; religious movements, sects, and denominations. Equivalent course SOCI 404 effective through Spring 2018. Mutually Exclusive with RELG 364.

SOCI 400 Senior Project (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 and SOCI 240. This course prepares students to design and complete a major project. This will involve the gathering, presentation, and analysis of evidence relevant to a particular theoretical or applied problem, using the relevant and appropriate sociological concepts. Since different faculty members emphasize different types of projects, students are urged to review individual syllabi prior to registering for the course.

SOCI 401 Sociology of Emotions (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. Humans have a unique capacity to experience a large variety of emotions. This course examines how cultures label, shape, and guide their members' emotional experience. It also explores the interplay between social-structural arrangements (e.g., family and economic systems) and emotion, illustrating links between macro-social patterns. Students will conduct original research on social factors related to emotionality.

SOCI 402 Social Contexts of Mental Illness and Treatment (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 309 or SOCI 336. Social conceptions of mental health and illness; social factors in the causes and treatment of mental illness. Mental institutions—their structures and ideologies. Comparative psychotherapies in social context; mental health personnel and professional ideologies; social movements and mental health and illness.

SOCI 405 Deviance and Social Control (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. Theoretical perspectives on human deviance. The social organization of specific types of deviance and of formal and informal social control.

SOCI 407 Sociology of the Mass Media (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. A sociological analysis and cultural critique of various mass media with an emphasis on radio, television, newspapers, and the internet. The course will examine their function and their relationship with constituent audiences.

SOCI 408 Social Movements (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. This course focuses on the study of concerted collective behavior for social change, or social movements. Various approaches to the understanding of social movements, including the natural history, case study, and analytical models, will be examined. Emphasis will be placed on relating theoretical work to contemporary empirical examples of social movement activity.
SOCI 411  Special Topics in Sociology  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. The area to be covered is chosen by the instructor each semester. The course may be selected more than once with approval. Limited to only the general areas of sociological theory, research methodology, problems of institutional processes, and application of methodology and theory to social situations or community issues and problems. May be repeated twice for a maximum of 9 credits.

SOCI 416  Qualitative Research in Sociology  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. The course will explore qualitative research from diverse theoretical perspectives. It will examine the personal, political, and scientific dilemmas that researchers typically face attempting to gather objective data about the ‘backstage regions’ of the subjects’ world. Topics may include the researcher’s role in the field; developing rapport and trust; emotions and fieldwork; age, race, sex, and gender issues in research; politics and ethics in fieldwork; researching ‘high risk’ settings; and techniques of data collecting in interviewing and fieldwork.

SOCI 420  Sociology of Law  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. The impact of the social usages of law on all levels of operation as an instrument of social policy, social control and social regulation.

SOCI 426  Sociology of Sexuality  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. The course examines theoretical and empirical work in the sociology of sexuality. It seeks to understand the social foundations of sexual behavior and sexual identity. It explores the relationship between sexuality and politics, focusing on current as well as historical conflicts over sexual behavior and ideologies.

SOCI 430  Sociology of Gender  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 301 or SOCI 304 or SOCI 309 or SOCI 311 or SOCI 312 or departmental approval. The social determinants of differences between women and men and the effect of sex role differentiation in the social institutions of marriage and family, the economy and work situation, formal education, health, mass media, and religion; special emphasis is placed on the impact of social change on sex roles in contemporary society. Meets World Cultures Requirement.

SOCI 500  Research Project Management  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course introduces students to quantitative data collection and analysis. Students will learn how to design and execute research projects that meet the needs of both private and non-profit research organizations by considering client needs, ethical considerations, budgetary constraints and project planning challenges. The main components of the course include designing and administering data collection instruments, data coding, and interpreting, tabulating and reporting quantitative data. The course will also focus on using statistical packages such as SPSS in analyzing survey data. By the conclusion of the course, students will also be prepared to effectively present the findings of their research using written, verbal and visual methods of communication.

SOCI 538  Survey Research  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. The use of surveys to measure attitudes, behaviors and program outcomes has become widespread in business, research, marketing, politics, and media. In this class, students will learn how to write surveys, collect data, and analyze data for applied research projects. Course topics will include identifying variables, conceptualization, index and scale construction, visual questionnaire presentation, piloting, testing for validity and reliability, and survey administration. Students will also learn the basics of statistics including univariate and bivariate data and descriptive and inferential techniques. An emphasis will be placed on the use of surveys for needs assessments, program evaluations and policy analyses. Equivalent course SOCI 568 effective through Fall 2019.

SOCI 556  Data Analysis  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 538 or equivalent. This course introduces students to hands-on techniques in quantitative data analysis. The main components of the course are: 1. Data cleaning and organization; 2. Descriptive statistics for categorical and continuous variables; 3. basics of statistical theory; 4. inferential statistical tests; 5. simple linear regression; 6. basics of multiple regression; 7. measurement, scaling, index, and elementary factor analysis. This course will also focus on data and model interpretation. In class, students will analyze and interpret real data that are used by market research companies, government agencies and social policy organizations.

SOCI 557  Data and Text Mining for Social Research  (3 credits)
Prerequisite(s): SOCI 556 (or comparable course). Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors or Data Collection and Management majors; or by departmental approval. This course introduces students to the basics of data and text mining. The course contains three major components: 1.) basics of R and R studio and data manipulation, or a similar software package; 2.) hand-on techniques and models of data mining and machine-learning-linear models and model selection and regularization, tree-based methods and random forests, cluster analysis, association rules and market basket, basics of time series and forecasting, and 3.) basics of text mining-semantic network, social network, and sentiment analysis. Although no programming experience is required, students are expected to have taken at least one intermediate statistics course that covers multiple regression and logistic regression. This course is ideal for students interested in a career in social data mining, data analysis, and machine learning. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits.

SOCI 559  Sociology of Deviance  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. The course will address the practical and political issues of defining, measuring, and responding to social deviance (e.g., mental illness, drug use, etc.). The course will concentrate on the role of formal agencies and institutions that deal with deviance and will examine problems in assessing various policy alternatives (e.g., decriminalization, deinstitutionalization, treatment, etc.).
SOCI 560  Applied Social Theory  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course will connect the abstract—as “theory” is by definition—with the imperatives of “application,” for students of applied social research. The greater part of the course will focus on theories that are likely to be more applicable to policy and program focused research. This may include theories of civil society and public sphere, systems theory, grounded theory, phenomenological theories, and relevant works from political philosophy and economic theory. Students will learn of work in organizational theory, cognitive and psychological concepts, notions of cultural and social capital, theories of network and communication, and the evolving work on late modernity.

SOCI 563  Self and Society  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. The relationships between the human individual and his/her social environment; the formation, maintenance and transformation of self or identity; the structure and processes of small groups; symbolic interactionism; role theory, cognitive dissonance and inter-group conflict.

SOCI 564  Community Planning, Housing and Development  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course brings together community planning and public policy to analyze historic and current trends in affordable housing, community development, land use, and housing finance. The course focuses on housing/community development policy, real estate and mortgage financing, subsidies, community participation, environmental impact, and neighborhood change such as gentrification and displacement, with particular emphasis on how issues of race/ethnicity, poverty, and the economic climate affect federal, state, local and community responses. We will discuss the causes and consequences of government intervention in housing and neighborhoods, developing tools for students to determine the need for public intervention, the optimal design and financing of housing and community development programs, and how to evaluate success.

SOCI 566  Urban Social Problems and Policy  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course is designed to help students gain knowledge and skills of social policy analysis to effectively participate in the development and advancement of policies that support and effect change in urban environments. A substantial portion of the course will be devoted to policies designed to secure equal opportunity as well as to moderate what may be deemed unacceptable inequalities on the basis of race, gender, immigration, and social class. It offers students analytical and empirical tools to better understand urban social problems (e.g., poverty, slums, homelessness, youth unemployment, child abuse, health risks) and the corresponding policies that promote more affordable, productive, inclusive, and healthier cities amidst fiscal constraints and intense economic competition. Case studies will provide deeper context into specific issues, such as gender inequality, child welfare, cultural contexts, technology-enabled social innovation, public-private partnerships, and nontraditional redistributive programs.

SOCI 567  Power and Social Stratification  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course will analyze the role of class, status and power in industrial society, and consider the relationship between issues of social stratification and the social environment.

SOCI 569  Interviews and Focus Groups  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course introduces students to qualitative research methods used in the social sciences. In this class, students will be exposed to typical qualitative research techniques such as in-depth interviews, ethnographies, focus groups and content analysis. The main components of this course are 1) designing ethnographies 2) conducting in-depth interviews 3) designing focus groups 4) interpreting, tabulating and reporting qualitative data. The course will also focus on coding techniques and writing and reporting qualitative findings.

SOCI 570  Independent Projects  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. Student investigates a topic of sociological relevance under the guidance of a faculty member. May be repeated twice for a maximum of 9 credits.

SOCI 571  Seminar in Applied Sociological Inquiry  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. Further develops competencies for the critical assessment of sociological literature, as it pertains to the formulation of research strategies for policy analysis and evaluation. Intensive study of a number of readings on applied areas of sociological concern. The comprehensive project based on the internship experience is written up during this course.

SOCI 572  Special Topics in Social Research  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. In this course students will engage in an intensive exploration of a special topic in social research, social policy, data analytics, or another related field. May be repeated for a maximum of 12 credits.

SOCI 574  Sociology of Ethnic Relationships  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course will analyze relationships among ethnic groups, and evaluate the causes, consequences and resolution of ethnic conflict. It will also consider the various policy implications of discrimination in institutional contexts.

SOCI 576  Marriage and Family Policy  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course examines the family system in the United States from both historical and contemporary perspectives. It will consider the implications of recent research on changing structure and cultural values as well as different policies regarding mate selection, intimate relationships and child rearing practices. Using a sociological lens and cutting edge-contemporary research, it examines the role of changing social policies on families.

SOCI 577  Poverty and Social Welfare Policy in the United States  (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course examines major contemporary definitions and ideologies of poverty and public welfare, and considers the extent and patterns of distribution of poverty. Alternative socio-economic explanations of poverty and their implications for policy will be assessed, and problem-solving aspects of program and policy research analyzed.
SOCI 578 Community Resources and Aging (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course examines resources for the aging within their communities. Additionally, it will acquaint students with services provided by public and private agencies and relevant federal and state legislation.

SOCI 581 Health, Medicine and Social Policy (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course will introduce the student to the interesting and complex relationships that exist between society, health and health care. Class lecture discussions will focus on the connections between social structure, the quality of the physical and social environment and health. Special attention will be given to work environments. This course will also deal with the effects of social factors on the experience of one’s body, the perception of disease and on the construction of medical knowledge.

SOCI 584 The Sociology of the Criminal Justice System (3 credits)
Restriction(s): Social Research and Analysis majors, Data Collection and Management majors or by departmental approval. This course examines the criminal justice system (the police, the courts, correctional institutions, probation and parole) and considers its manifest and latent functions. It explores sociologically the ways in which offenders are selected, processed and treated, and offers a view of the system from both occupational and experiential perspectives.

SOCI 585 The Sociology of Police (3 credits)
